DUPONT POWDER PLANT BLOWN UP

Tremendous Explosion Friday Night at Haskell, N. J., Caused $2,500,000 Loss—Number Killed Not Definitely Known.

New York, Jan. 13.—Two thunderous munition plant explosions, coming within 35 hours of each other and working appalling damage, gave rise today to ugly reports of war plots.

Last night's explosion at the DuPont Powder Plant at Haskell, N. J., following so closely upon that of the Canadian Car and Foundry Company's plant seemed so suspicious that it seemed unlikely it was an accident.

On the surface, officials of both the DuPont Plant and the Canadian works are accepting the explosions as the total damage of which will reach probably more than $20,000,000—as accidents. But secretly they are conducting rigid investigations. This was admitted today.

Like the Kingsland disaster, it may be impossible for days to determine whether there was extensive loss of life in the Haskell explosion. Four hundred thousand pounds of smokeless powder went roaring skyward in a series of mighty blasts which were felt in four states. Persons a mile away were knocked flat on their faces, and as far away as Springfield, Mass., the jar was felt.

At least six men were killed at Haskell. Some three hundred men were working in the plant at the time but they fled for safety over the hills and marshes in which the factory nestles, and it will be some time before these men can be checked up.

So terrific was the force of the explosion that the General Artistic Weaving Company, a mile north of Haskell, was completely wrecked. The loss there is estimated at $75,000. The monetary loss at the DuPont's was fixed today in the neighborhood of $2,500,000.

Residents of Haskell declared today that it is highly improbable that the loss of life is so slight as set forth by the company officials. They said 4,000 men working in shifts were known to be in the danger zone, and it is not likely that they all escaped.

In the hospital are between 30 and 40 men, all injured. Most of them are burned, or have broken limbs from trying to get away.

A police cordon was strung about the works today and none but company officials were allowed to enter. For miles around the countryside was illuminated with a glowing red glare reflected from the skies, when tons and tons of smokeless powder began to burn, in what is believed to be the greatest torch ever known.

For miles around the effects of the explosion have laid waste. Trees torn up by their roots, wrecked buildings, shattered walls and smoke everywhere, smoke and the black dingy stains of burned powder—add to the desolate scene.

The work of rehabilitation is going on today. Men and women are assisting what damage has been done to their homes, and hastening to gather together their effects.

FRANK SEAMAN SANTA CLAUS.

Yama Yama Farms Provides Food For Employees' Entertainment.

Frank Seaman, president of Frank Seaman, Incorporated, the New York advertising organization, played Santa Claus to 165 employees on Wednesday last. There was a celebration in honor of a prosperous year, which started with a matinee party in the afternoon and a dinner party in the offices of the organization later, the dinner being sent in large hamper from Yama Yama Farms at Napanoch.

During the evening Mr. Seaman made a short address in which he thanked the employees for their loyalty and announced that an envelope would be handed to each as he or she left. The envelope contained checks for varying sums, a total of $10,000 being distributed.

Mr. DuBois Is Recovering.

Joshua M. DuBois, who fell a week ago while going from his home to the chicken coop, fracturing his left arm just above the wrist, is rapidly recovering from the injuries. Mr. DuBois was walking from his home to the coop which is on Henry street when he fell and was rendered unconscious. As he fell Mr. DuBois struck his head on the ice receiving a deep cut just below his eye and his wrist was fractured. When he regained consciousness he walked to the house and a doctor was called and cared for his wounds.

Chapman for Mules.

Harry Lippincott, a former Wall Street man, returned last week from his 14th trans-Atlantic trip since December, 1914. He is a veterinarian and has been in charge of large shipments of mules from this country to France. On Friday Mr. Lippincott sailed from Portland, Me., on the Zezonia with a cargo of 700 horses. One ship he was aboard was recently purchased by a submarine.

DE SILVA NAMED FOR LEE'S PLACE

Missing Division Chief Was Found in Marlborough by Game Protector Nolan of Milton—Believed to Have Been Suffering from Amnesia.

Joseph M. De Silva, division chief of the Southern division of New York of the State Conservation Commission, was appointed today temporary chief of the Hudson river district in place of Charles E. Lee, whose mysterious disappearance and failure to report to the department led to his dismissal. Mr. De Silva has his headquarters at Fleischmanns, Delaware county, and it is understood that he will remain there taking care of his duties.

Lee, the missing division chief, was found by E. P. Nolan, a game protector of Milton, N. Y., on Monday morning about 11:30 on the Marlborough road near Hewitt's hotel. When discovered by Nolan he was trying to fix his auto alongside the road. The man was in a dazed condition and evidently suffering under a great mental strain. Both the chief game protector and his car showed signs of much travel and hard usage. Game Protector Nolan invited him to his home at Milton, where he dined and went to bed.

Tuesday morning he returned to his home in Poughkeepsie, accompanied by Game Protector Nolan. It is said he will appear before the State Conservation Commission at Albany, where charges have been filed against him.

DR. GARLAND WILL BE NOON SPEAKER

Luncheon Instead of Evening Meeting Now Planned by Chamber of Commerce—Outline of Work and Committees Now Occupying Officers.

Because of a change in arrangements, the Chamber of Commerce now plans to have the address by Dr. D. F. Garland, director of Public Welfare in Dayton, Ohio, deliver his address at a noon day luncheon next Thursday, January 18. The time and place will be announced Monday. Great interest is being taken in the appearance of Dr. Garland in this city which is one of the few places he will speak in on his present eastern tour.

Members of the staff of the American City Bureau, expect to remain in Kingston until about February 1st during which time the program of activities of the reorganized city will be announced. This program is now being formulated, it being based upon the replies sent in by members on the best courses to follow for a bigger and better Kingston. President Leighton is also working on the appointment of committees each of which will be given control and responsibility for the project entrusted to it. Marked progress is anticipated once the plans are outlined and the various committees get under way.

Ladies' Auxiliary Elect.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. held a regular meeting on Friday afternoon at which time the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Frank R. Powley; first vice president, Mrs. M. N. Brown; second vice president, Mrs. Charles R. O'Connor; secretary, Mrs. F. L. Thornberry; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Harry Walker; treasurer, Mrs. A. C. Gates. The devotional service was in charge of Mrs. Louis Beeres. At the business session the ladies decided to hold three suppers during the year to raise funds. No dates were fixed.

American Independence Union.

The Kingston Branch of the American Independence Union will hold their regular meeting on Monday, January 15, 1917, at 8 p. m., at the Hotel Eichler. All members are cordially invited to attend. The society wants to inform all its members, their friends and the public in general that we have a receipt on hand from Charles Froeb, treasurer of the Allgemeiner Hilfs-Ausschuss, New York city, for the sum of $212.17, which was collected at the last mass meeting November 5, 1916, for the support of the war sufferers in Germany and Austria-Hungary.

The Drama in Highland.

The Van Dusen Contracting Company of Newburgh has the contract for the removing of the Highland moving picture theater from its present location to the Junior Order American Mechanics' lot in Vineyard avenue. It has been planned by the managers to have the house in Vineyard avenue, January 19, exhibiting Mary Pickford in "Less Than the Dust." Walter Hasbrouck, builder, will remodel the front of the building, making an arch effect with double doors.

Burglar Was Electrocuted.

An unidentified burglar robbing the unoccupied home of Mrs. James McVicker in Dobbs Ferry, was shocked to death when he cut a high charged wire in attempting to steal the brass and copper fittings of a safe. The man's body was found Thursday in the basement.

C. OF C. WORK IN 1916 IS REVIEWED

Secretary Canfield's Report Points Out Notable Achievements of Past Year—Conventions, Industrial Visits and Expansion of Many Industries Cited.

A comprehensive review of the past year's activities of the Chamber of Commerce was presented by Secretary James E. Canfield at the annual meeting Wednesday night as follows:

Never since the creation of the world has one person been able to either create or build anything alone. The universal man or woman is yet to be born. Failure to recognize this fact and the need of co-operative effort, and the consequent shifting of responsibility upon a few loyal officers and members, is the apparent reason for the relative inefficiency and meagre results obtained in commercial organizations.

It is well to remember that whatever is best for the community as a whole is, in the long run, best for its individual members. We are learning today that it is not only commendable to be mindful of the welfare of those with whom our lot is cast, as becomes a conscientious member of the universal brotherhood, but it actually pays in dollars and cents; it pays in civic pride; and the returns we get in thus taking our fellow men into account as beneficiaries of the good things of life are much more satisfactory than all the wealth and glory we can wring out of life by riding rough shod over the rights and privileges of those who got in the way of our selfish ambitions.

Beginning with the social activities of the past year, we first mention the testimonial dinner to retiring president, J. B. Kearney. Other events included the excellent lecture on Abraham Lincoln in February by the Rev. Mr. John Riley of Schenectady in the high school auditorium, which was very largely attended; the transportation dinner at The Stuyvesant Hotel in March with representatives of the various transportation lines, centering in Kingston as our guests; the transcontinental telephone demonstration at the Elk's Hall in May; and the dollar dinner recently held at The Stuyvesant, which marked the inauguration of the expansion movement in our city. All of these events were well attended and proved very successful.

In the connection may be mentioned the "Little Industrial Journeys" which covered visits to and inspection of our fine new high school, The Universal Road Machinery plant, the Barmann Brewery, telephone building, Kingston Dairy, and the Emerson Motors Company. More than seventy-five different business men took advantage of this opportunity to get acquainted with the workings of these successful local institutions.

Our local chamber sent a delegation of seven to the annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce at Washington last February, and it is hoped that a goodly number of our members will plan to attend the gathering this year, which occurs January 30th and February 1st.

We have assisted in making 1916 a successful convention year in Kingston, having entertained the Hudson River Federation of Commercial Organizations in May, and with the cooperation of the Ulster County Automobile Club, arranged for the automobile trip to the Ashokan reservoir given to the delegates of the United Commercial Travelers of New York who met here in June. Similar trips were also planned in connection with the convention of the Sons and Daughters of Liberty (June). The Police Chiefs of New York state (July), the State Fruit Growers Association (August) and the Daughters of America (September). These conventions brought over 1,000 strangers to Kingston and undoubtedly have helped greatly to advertise the city.

Other means of publicity have included, besides the office correspondence covering over two thousand letters mailed to all sections of the country, the distribution of ten thousand printed Kingston folders.

Notwithstanding the fact that the usual one day membership canvass was omitted last year and instead letters were sent to the members and business men requesting their financial and moral support, the year closed with 15,342 members on the rolls, 87 of which were regular paying a $5 fee and 70 sustaining, paying $25 dues. As a result of the expansion campaign, however, we now have 371 members, mostly pledged for three years, about 300 of these being individual memberships and the balance plural memberships held by firms and corporations. The list includes such non-commercial organizations as the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, the Y. M. C. A. and the United Commercial Travelers.

FRANZ VON BOPP & ECKHARDT VON SCHAICK

CONVICT GERMAN CONSUL OF VIOLATING NEUTRALITY.

Franz von Bopp, German Consul General, and Eckhardt von Schaick, Vice Consul General, convicted by a jury in San Francisco of having conspired to violate American neutrality and conspiracy to restrain international trade. Several other persons who participated in the conspiracies were also convicted. It is probable that appeals will be taken.

It is our duty to record the death of the following members: Reuben Bernard, John J. Campbell, Von Beck Canfield, John T. Cummings, A. W. Thompson, George L. Wachsmeyer and William Wolven. Thirty-six committee meetings, also several unreported conferences, and ten sessions of the Board of Directors were held during the year. The legislative committee devoted much time and thought to the careful consideration of many state and national questions, affecting either directly or indirectly the welfare of the community and have recommended to the board such action on these various questions as they deemed advisable. Among these may be mentioned referenda submitted to the local board by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce on the Seamen's Act, dealing with the development of our merchant marine; on the maintenance of no-sale price; on federal aid for vocational education; on national defense and on the railroad situation.

The Chamber has endorsed the general purpose of the National Security League and adopted resolutions favoring an adequate and sane national defense; endorsed the movement for one-cent letter postage; appointed a local committee to co-operate with the national committee on a non-partisan tariff commission; recommended the continuance of state appropriation for training ship Newport; endorsed the budget policy of financing both national and state governments and favored the correction of defects in our present system of railway regulation.

Kingston in common with other industrial communities must face and solve the problem of Americanization if the English language and the American standards of living are to prevail in our community. Resolutions emphasizing the importance of this matter and recommending the education of aliens, were submitted to our Board of Education early in the year, also to the same body resolutions suggesting that the greatest possible use of our fine high school auditorium should be encouraged for musical and literary entertainments. We have co-operated with the high school by calling the attention of our merchants to the offer of the class in design to provide them, without cost, with any needed window signs. We have given our moral support to the Symphony Orchestra, endorsed the clean-up work campaign conducted by the Board of Health, asked and received the hearty co-operation of the Board of Public Works in connection with several needed streets, lighting and sidewalk improvements; approved of the bill empowering the state engineer to make a survey and report on the feasibility of reopening the D. & H. Canal. Have held three conferences and carefully considered important plans for a local barge canal; have taken up the matter of telephone service during fires; assisted in raising funds for Company M; carefully investigated the question of better mail service between this city and towns on the other side of the Hudson, holding several conferences with the post office officials and our representatives at Washington with regard to this matter.

Have used the influence of the chamber in assisting to bring about the beginning of the much desired Fort Egan Bridge which soon promises to be a reality.

The Chamber has co-operated with the local merchants (1) in securing the proper regulation of auction sales by transients; (2) approving of the proposed amendment to the general municipal law taxing transients; (3) helped to promote plans for prosperity week; (4) arranged special excursions on the local railroads in March and December.

Your secretary has devoted a large share of his time seeking to secure the location of additional factories employing men. We have application, negotiated during the year with more than forty different industrial concerns most of which demanded not feel justified in offering we also have sent out hundreds of letters and folders stating the advantages of Kingston as a manufacturing center. Because of the labor conditions existing in our city, we have adopted a policy of discouraging the location of additional factories employing chiefly female labor, and thus seeking to protect the industries already established here which are contributing materially to the present prosperity of the community.

The two most encouraging developments along industrial lines in our city during the past year, with which our chamber has had a very important part, have been the erection of the splendid Jacobson factory on Cornell street and the purchase of the old Peckham plant by the Emerson Motors Co. This latter company have almost completely transformed the appearance and condition of the buildings and grounds comprising their plant, having expended about $20,000 for additional improvements. They now have approximately $100,000 worth of material on hand and, with seventy-five to eighty employees, they pay roll last week amounted to nearly $1,000; while the wages paid by the Jacobson Shirt Company have now reached a point where they will approximate $100,000 a year.

Your secretary desires to express sincere thanks to the officers, directors and members of the chamber for their loyal support; also to the press and to the mayor and other city officials for their generous co-operation.

With our enlarged membership we now have the opportunity as an organization to build up a city here that shall be a source of pride and gratification to this generation and an inspiration to generations to come. We must seize this opportunity and with unity of purpose, with hope and confidence and the spirit of co-operation go forward to accomplish the things necessary to make this a better, a bigger Kingston, remembering the words of Kipling that

"It ain't the guns nor armament, Nor funds that they can pay, But the close co-operation That makes them win the day— It ain't the individual, Not the army as a whole, But the ever lasting team-work— Of every blooming soul."

MATERIAL ORDERED FOR 10,000 CARS

Emerson Company Places Large Order for Material With L. F. Bannan Company—Cars to be Built Here.

The L. F. Bannan Company of Hasbrouck avenue, has just secured a large order from the Emerson Motors Company of this city for $5,000 feet of one-eighth inch pipe, 20,000 one-eighth inch elbows, 20,000 one-eighth inch nipples, and 20,000 one-eighth inch couplings. Also for a car load of 15 tons of black pickled annealed sheet iron of No. 20 and No. 22 gauge to be used for fenders, guards, running boards and so forth.

This order covers material needed for the completion of 10,000 cars which the Emerson Company expect to put on the market within the next month or so as their engines, frames, radiators and so forth are now arriving in large quantities daily.

People who were attending the May Peterson concert at the high school plainly felt several explosions. The first ones being slight and followed immediately by a heavy explosion, the last being felt by everyone seated in the big auditorium.

GERMAN RAIDERS IN NORTH ATLANTIC

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 13.—Warnings to Allied shipping against German raiders in the North Atlantic, were again sent out today.

The warning in English and French said:

"Enemy raider may be encountered. Take all precautions."

ULSTER DEED FROM INDIANS.

Old Dutchess County Records Have Been Bound Anew.

A new cover has appeared on the oldest record in Dutchess county, the ancient written account of the proceedings of the board of supervisors of 1717-1718. This is one of the historic records found in the basement of the court house.

The ink now faded by the lapse of 200 years an entry is made of thirty pounds, one shilling and nine pence sent to New York as tax money for the two years 1716-1717 for the support of the colonial government. The tax was based on a valuation of 1,000 pounds sterling.

Seven Indians united in a deed of property 8 miles wide in Ulster county. They signed the paper by making their marks in scroll seal.

"At an election in Poughkeepsie on the first Tuesday in April, 1718, for the choosing of one supervisor, two surveyors, one overseer of the highway and two surveyors of the fences for the ensuing year," runs the record. "Henry Vandenberg was chosen supervisor of the North Ward, Leonard Lewis as free juror, Elias Van Benschoten and Mindret Vandebogart assessors. Hendrick Pels as overseer of the highway and Isaac Lidford collector."

Other old documents are now being bound in durable covers for preservation.

"Boss Thieves" Are Fined.

A check for $43.62 was received Friday by each of the 23 members of the Walden Horse Thief Detective Association. The dividend marked the disbandment of an organization in existence for 23 years. At one time this society was one of the leading social organizations in the village, holding annual banquets at which either vaudeville actors or distinguished speakers entertained. General Sharpe, a well known Ulster general, was a speaker on one occasion, and the Rev. Father Meredith was another favorite.

Boys Killed at Play.

A little grandson of Mr. Van Sickle of this village named Walton Hartung, aged ten years, residing at Newport News, Virginia, was killed with two other little boys, by the caving in on New Year's Day of a tunnel, which they had dug for play beneath a bluff at the edge of Casino Park. It required an hour's digging to recover the bodies.—New Paltz Independent.

Parent Teachers at No. 7.

The Parent-Teachers Association of School No. 7 will meet at the school on Tuesday afternoon of next week at 3:45 o'clock. The program will include an address by Captain Meagher, and vocal selections by Miss Helen Atkins and Mrs. Morris.

Higher Cost of Hellos.

The village of Walton will object to a proposed increase in telephone rates by the Walton People's Telephone Company, which wants the residence rate boosted from $12 to $15 and the business rate from $18 to $24 per year.

Wind Spins Turntable.

The high wind at Delhi one day recently started the turntable in the railroad yard revolving something after the fashion of a merry-go-round.

Mrs. Russell Sage is to become the first woman member of the Troy Chamber of Commerce which is about to embark upon a membership campaign.

EXPLOSION FELT IN THIS CITY

The explosion of the big DuPont powder works at Pompton Lakes, N. J., was plainly felt in this city Friday night shortly after 9:30 o'clock. There were several slight explosions which preceded the big explosion and many people were of the impression that one of the local plants had exploded, the vibration being of about the same force as when one of the smaller houses at the local plants exploded.

In many sections of the city the houses were shaken and people who had retired early were jarred and shaken in their beds. Immediately after the explosion the telephone wires were kept busy for a time by people who desired to know the cause of the explosion.

People who were attending the May Peterson concert at the high school plainly felt several explosions. The first ones being slight and followed immediately by a heavy explosion, the last being felt by everyone seated in the big auditorium.

Over on Janet street the vibration was of such force that windows and doors rattled and dishes were shaken on the table.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 13.—There were no important movements during the first fifteen minutes on the Stock Exchange today. Business was by professionals, who offered the leading stocks at concessions, but losses in the first few minutes were generally confined to fractions. Steel dropped  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 111  $\frac{1}{2}$ , Utah  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 103  $\frac{1}{2}$  and Reading  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 98  $\frac{1}{2}$ . Some of the specialties had a wide range, with Industrial Alcohol dropping a point, followed by a rally to 113. Goodrich Rubber declined a point to 54. U. S. Rubber dropped  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 60. Maxwell Motor rose a point to 52  $\frac{1}{2}$ .

The final tone was firm. A firmer tone was shown generally in the last hour, when "covering" of shorts carried Steel Common up to above 111. Rubber showed a better tone and rallied over a point from its low of the first hour and Crucible after selling at 60  $\frac{1}{2}$ , rose to above 62. Reading also responded with an advance of about a point. Government bonds unchanged; Railway and other bonds firm.

Expert Advice For the Automobile Owner

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

When running faster than fifteen miles per hour my car makes a noise in the transmission and differential gears. I have had the car overhauled, but the noise is still present. It sounds like a trolley car going at high speed.

The noise comes from the belt pinion and ring gear unless we are much mistaken. Either these meshing gears are very badly worn or they are out of adjustment. The way to find out is to examine them yourself or have them examined. If the gear teeth seem to be in very fair condition the trouble is in the adjustment. If the teeth are pitted and chipped they need replacement. The adjustment of the gears in this particular differential assembly is a matter of shimming behind the bearings and should be done by a repairer that knows just how gears should be properly set.

What might cause lack of compression in a cylinder in which the valves and pistons are tight?

This might be due to a high spot on the mushroom of the push rod. The remedy is to remove this spot by grinding or to increase the clearance between push rod and valve stem.

What may be the cause of the brakes not being effective, and how may it be remedied?

The common cause of brake slippage is due to oil on the brake bands. This oil makes its way from the differential housings to the brake drums and causes the brake drum to slip. Poor adjustment of the brake rods will cause poor performance. Take a squirt gun, fill it with kerosene and empty the contents upon the brake bands. This will tend to dissolve any grease or oil upon them.

I have a small leak in my radiator, not very large, but enough to leak out a gallon or two in half a day. I have tried patent preparations, but they do not help. The leak seems to be high up, as often a part leaks out, then ceases. What would you recommend? Is there some home remedy?

Your radiator leak is too large for any preparation to stop it. Preparations are only valuable when the leak is very small. First of all we would suggest that you locate the leak. If you can do a good soldering job your self repair it in that way. If you cannot take your car to a reliable tinshop or a garage that can perform such work and have them solder it.

In what respects is the valve in the head motor more efficient than the L head motor, and why is it that a head motor will make one size car in valve in head style and another in L head style?

As a matter of theory, the valve in the head motor is more efficient than the L head type because it permits the location of the valves directly above the pistons, allowing quicker inlet and exhaust of the gases. The matter of the same concern building both types is out of our ability to explain. It is the engineer's preference, and he has his reasons—varied, of course—for advocating the different types.

What are the advantages and disadvantages of the steam car as compared with the gasoline car?

One of the objections to a steam car is the time necessary to generate steam before the car can be started. Another is the danger of freezing in cold weather, which, however, is a danger which may be eliminated by an owner who understands his car. Another objection is the fact that there is such a scarcity of steam cars that the average garage repair man knows nothing about them and in attempting a repair job is likely to do more harm than good.

One advantage is the extreme simplicity of the motor in comparison with a gasoline motor. Other advantages are a range of flexibility and an evenness of power at all speeds that few gasoline cars can approach, freedom from motor carbon, no ignition or carburetor troubles, no gears to shift and direct drive of motor to rear axle, eliminating a drive shaft assembly.

Is it possible to start the motor in a car when the self starter fails to work and the crank is missing?

When the starter fails and the hand crank is not available the best method of starting the motor is to jack up one of the rear wheels so that it will turn without touching the ground. Then place the gear shift lever in high, and a few turns of the uplifter wheel will start the motor. Place the gear shift lever in neutral before letting down the jacked up wheel or you will have a runaway on your hands or at least the motor will stall and you will have all your work to do over again. Properly done the entire operation takes only a few moments.

Can you give me a good recipe for cleaning seat covers?

There are several upholstery cleaners on the market which are soapy compositions and serve well as cleaners for seat covers. Probably the simplest recipe would be to use a good grade nonalkali soap and warm water. Seat covers are water resisting, and good ones will not shrink. If they are removed they may be cleaned on a scrubbing board without ill effects.

Surely Not.

"In that case there's no hurry. Pa-tience surely won't mind waiting!"

What is the brake mean effective pressure or the mean effective pressure of an internal combustion engine, and how can this be determined?

At the instant of explosion the pressure is very high and falls as the piston descends. The mean effective pressure is the average of the pressure existing throughout the firing stroke. Since a certain amount of power is used up within the engine and by friction the actual power delivered at the flywheel is less than it would be if there were no knowledge of what the mean effective pressure really is. We therefore take the mean effective pressure and multiply it by a decimal representing the percentage efficiency of the engine. Thus, if the actual mean effective pressure is 100 and the mechanical efficiency seventy-five, then the brake mean effective pressure would be seventy-five pounds per square inch. In actual engines this brake mean effective pressure varies between sixty and 100 pounds.

When a horsepower test has been made the actual power delivered at a stated number of revolutions is none. We know this power comes from so many strokes of the pistons and of the impulse of the explosions. Knowing the area of the piston head and the length of the stroke, we therefore know the brake mean effective pressure.

I have always had trouble with the exhaust valves on my car fouling, sometimes as often as every 100 miles. Last spring this suddenly stopped, and I did not have a dirty valve all summer until about a month ago, when I cleaned the carbon out of the four cylinders. Since then I have had the same trouble. I have always made it a point to clean the carbon out every winter until last year, when I neglected it. Is it possible that the higher compression due to the carbon kept the valves from fouling? Would increasing the compression by putting plates on the pistons stop the trouble again? I have a set of nonleaking rings in the motor, and there is no leakage past the pistons. I soldered an old tire valve in an old spark plug and then tested the compression with a tire gauge. I get only between forty-five and fifty pounds compression. Do you think this gauge is accurate for this work? It tallies with other tire gauges.

Although it would take an internal examination of your motor to give a proof of what should create such an unusual trouble, it is our supposition on the face of your statement that the carbon which worked into the rings serves to hold the oil down from the top of the cylinders; when cleaned out the oil slips past the rings. You state that you have nonleaking rings fitted. Nonleaking rings may leak as much as plain ones if they are not properly fitted to the pistons. Did you change the grade of oil you were using after you had overhauled the motor? Do not try to fasten the plates on to the tops of the pistons. It is an unsatisfactory job at the best. Look to your rings and the fit of the pistons.

The gauge you have constructed should give accurate compression figures.

How can one tell when a magnet needs remagnetizing?

When the magnets will not lift and hold about fifteen pounds they are said to be weak. Missing fire at low speeds is the result of weak magnets. When this occurs the magnets should be recharged.

What is your advice about using coal oil in radiators as an anti-freeze?

We would not advise you to use coal oil or kerosene in your radiator as an anti-freeze solution. Although certain heavy duty or tractor engines do use oil as a cooling medium, it is a special oil and used in a specially designed radiator.

Kerosene is a poor cooling agent, and the radiator you now have on your car would be too small. Also the sediment due to the evaporation of the oil would soon clog up the cooling passages, as oil does not evaporate in the same manner as water. The oil also would have a tendency to rot the rubber hose connections, and it would be very difficult to keep them from leaking. Also, the cases given off, due to heating of the oil, would be explosive and hence dangerous.

The lights on my car burn well for several evenings at a time, then they will appear very bright, far above the normal power, and burn as though an electric bulb were used many times the size. I have looked over the wiring for cross wires or grounds, but failed to discover anything wrong. What is the cause of this? It happens only when the car is in gear.

This would lead one to believe that the automatic regulator was not working properly at all times. If the regulator does not operate the generator builds the voltage up and thus brightens the lights. It is a dangerous symptom and should be investigated by an expert electrical man. Are you by any chance being deluded in the power of the lights? With the battery slightly run down the lights will always brighten up considerably when the generator begins to deliver current to the storage battery—namely, at a speed of from ten to fifteen miles per hour.

NO ONE WANTS TO BUY STONE CRUSHER

No Bids Received For it by B. P. W. Taxpayers' Association File Protest Against Sale, Which Under Circumstances Was Not Necessary.

Considerable time was taken up at the regular meeting of the board of public works Friday afternoon by a discussion relative to the action of the board in closing the city stone crushing plant on Stephen street, and the Kingston Taxpayers' Association filed voluminous protests against the proposed sale which proved unnecessary from the fact that no one seems to want to buy the plant which the board has been advertising for sale, as not a bid was received by the board, although the time limit on bids had been extended a week in the hope that some offer would be made.

The city stone crusher has been figuring in the public print ever since it was shut down by the board of public works when Alderman Schick came to the rescue of the plant and in stirring words urged the common council to protest to the B. P. W. against the close down which was done. Then a little later along came the Taxpayers' Association and they proceeded to raise up on their hind legs and howl in the form of a voluminous protest which was filed early this morning with the board, and which was printed in the Freeman at the time, and then again on Friday another voluminous protest was filed with the B. P. W.

The Municipal League has not been heard from yet. The much discussed stone crushing plant again took the center of the stage on Friday at the board meeting when Francis C. Merritt, chairman of the committee on sewers, streets and public works of the Taxpayers' Association walked into the meeting and handed Clerk Johnson a three page protest reading as follows:

Kingston, N. Y., January 12, 1917
To the Honorable
The Board of Public Works of the City of Kingston, N. Y.
Gentlemen:

The Taxpayers' Association of the City of Kingston, N. Y., respectfully submit to your honorable body, as supplemental to the protest heretofore filed with you by said association, the following reasons why the stone crushing plant, belonging to the taxpayers of the city and under your charge, should not be sold as is shown to be the intention of your honorable body according to the advertisement for bids on the same contained in local papers.

First—The committee of said association on sewers, streets and public works, believes that the crushing plant above referred to is in a good working condition and that if said plant is properly run, under competent management, it is capable of turning out for the city of Kingston at least ten (10) tons of crushed stone per hour, making a total output for an eight hour day of eighty (80) tons.

Second—That said committee is informed that said crusher can and should be operated with a maximum of fifteen (15) men and that the average wage of such men would not exceed $2.50 per day or the sum of $37.50 per day for labor on the crusher and in the quarry. That in addition hereto it would be necessary to have more cars and that the average cost of such cars would be $125 each per day, six 50-100 dollar cars per day therefore, making the total per day of $44.00.

Adding thereto the sum of $15.00 per day for supplies, the total cost of running the plant per day would be $59.00.

The above computation would make the cost per ton for crushed stone at the crusher a fraction over 73 cents per ton.

The above estimates are given to the committee of said Taxpayers' Association by men who are not only acquainted with the crusher plant under discussion but with the location, condition and surroundings of the quarry and the character of the stone.

Third—That this committee on behalf of the association desired to call attention to the excess cost for hauling stone from the Wilbur road over and above the cost of hauling stone from the present location of the crusher plant, to-wit:

A. We are informed that city rigs are in the habit of hauling three loads of stone from the Wilbur road crushing plant to streets under repair or construction, per day of eight hours, and that the price paid by the city for single rigs is $3.25 per day, which would make the cost per load for hauling from that crusher $1.08 per load.

On the other hand we are informed that the usual number of loads hauled by city rigs from the location of the city crusher to streets under construction or repair is eight loads per day of eight hours, or a cost per load for hauling of 104 cents per load, a difference in cost for hauling alone of 59 cents per load.

Again this committee is informed that the crushed stone taken from the city crusher can be loaded on the wagons at the crusher from a chute and that the average time consumed in the loading of a wagon under those conditions would be not more than five minutes.

On the other hand we are informed that at the crushing plant on the Wilbur road it is necessary to shovel the stone upon the wagons by hand and that such method of loading will consume at least 30 minutes per load.

From those facts this committee respectfully submits that the city crushed stone is much cheaper so far as hauling of the same is concerned. Fourth—This committee also offers the suggestion that, even if the crushed stone cost as much, or more than the stone crushed in private plants, which we have shown is not apparently the fact, it is better for the city to crush its own stone, giving to the people the taxes an opportunity to earn by day's work at least a part of the money necessary for them to pay for the support of the city. All of which is respectfully submitted by Taxpayers' Association, Kingston, N. Y.

By FRANCIS C. MERRITT,
Chairman of Com. on S. S. and P. W.
Mr. Merritt Explains.

In further explanation of the two voluminous protests filed by the Taxpayers' Association Mr. Merritt was extended the privilege of the floor and spoke for many minutes in explanation of the protests. Mayor Canfield also consumed a number of minutes in explaining the stand taken by the board in the matter.

No Knockers Club.
Mr. Merritt wanted it made plain that the Taxpayers' Association was no Knockers Club. Perish the thought. They were simply formed to assist the city officials in the performance of their duties. From what was gathered it seems that the new association will likely have a free advice bureau where city officials may brush up on municipal matters, and the proper way to run a city government.

The new Taxpayers' Association will work along lines that are absolutely frictionless, as the organization has no desire to rub the city officials the wrong way. All they want to do is to keep down taxes and hand out advice.

No Bids Received.
After Mayor Canfield had explained to Mr. Merritt and several others citizens present—whether they were members of the Taxpayers' Association was not stated—Clerk John J. Linson announced that no bids had been received for the stone crushing plant.

Shelved.
That settled the crushing plant question for the time being at least and the two protests of the Taxpayers' Association were filed for future reference and the board with a breath of relief settled down to take up other weighty problems. A spectator who had fallen asleep was awakened and the board disposed of a large amount of routine business.

To Open Streets.
A representative of the New York Telephone Company was present and asked permission to take up brick pavement on the Strand and Broadway for the purpose of enlarging the manholes on account of the increased size of a new cable being laid from New York.

Permission was granted on condition that the work was done under the supervision of the superintendent of the board and that brick pavement replaced to his satisfaction.

Proposed Higginsville Bridge.
City Engineer Codwise submitted to the board a communication received from County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughran in regard to the proposed concrete bridge over the Esopus creek at Higginsville to replace the present structure. It is estimated that the cost would be $14,000 of which the city pays half and the town half. A blue print of the proposed structure was also submitted. The blue print called for an 18 foot roadway with a walk along the side. The plans met the approval of the board and of the city engineer.

Routine Matters.
The board fixed the yearly salary of the city engineer at $1,500 and same as heretofore.

Resolutions adopted by the common council with reference to repairing certain streets were turned over to the superintendent for action.

May Buy Truck.
Harold King of the A. R. King & Company was present at the meeting and said that the concern would be willing to furnish the board with a 3 1/2 ton truck at a total cost of $3,154. The board has been thinking of buying an auto truck for some time past to be used in hauling stone and other city work.

After some discussion Mr. King was instructed to present his proposition in writing.

The board will likely take action at the next regular meeting as if they purchase a truck they want it delivered about the first of April.

What Do Taxpayers Think?
"What do the Taxpayers Association have to say regarding our buying a truck?" asked Commissioner Ward Everett of Mr. Merritt.

"We are in the minority just now," replied Mr. Merritt with a smile.

Adjourned in Time for Supper.
Two hours after disposing of one or two routine matters then took an adjournment in time to have a 6 o'clock dinner, or supper.

Marlborough Grange Installs.
Marlborough Grange held its annual installation in the lodge rooms Tuesday evening. The newly elected officers were installed by Charles Baldwin, and refreshments were served. The officers are: Master, Mrs. Henry A. Gaebe; overseer, Mrs. Ed. Reynolds; lecturer, the Rev. Thomas Davies; steward, John Stephens, Jr.; assistant steward, Fred Dunn; chaplain, John W. Bingham; treasurer, J. A. Hepworth; secretary, William J. Burrows; gatekeeper, Albert Albertson; Ceres, Mrs. C. E. Baldwin; Pomona, Miss Ethel Case; Flora, Miss Eva Nicklin; lady assistant steward, Miss Arline Hepworth; trustee, Henry C. Conkey.

Harriman to Resign.
Members of the State Fair Commission have been informed that W. Averill Harriman is to retire from the commission and he will suggest to Gov. Whitman that Pierre Lorillard, Jr., of Tuxedo Park, be named to succeed him. Mr. Harriman says his business interests necessitate his retirement.

Stricken at Church.
E. Y. Jenkins was taken ill with apoplexy at the home of friends in Milton Tuesday evening after returning from a church service. The many friends of Mr. Jenkins, who is past eighty years of age, sincerely hope for his speedy recovery.

Sullivan Solves Orzaviz.
Edward Bissland of Lumberland, was chosen chairman of the Sullivan county board of supervisors at its organization Wednesday. K. D. L. Niven was elected clerk.

Geology Leads the Way

Now is the day of the highly trained mining geologist. The new big mines are being found AT DEPTH.

These consist largely of properties containing orebodies which were mined at or near the surface to a point where they disappeared and were lost. Science is now setting up sign posts to find the continuation of these orebodies, which did not pinch at all, but merely "faulted." A movement of the earth's crust broke them in two and moved one portion away.

Witness recent great geologic successes and the almost spontaneous change in method of the search for mines. Where formerly the venturesome prospector fought the privations of the desert or the terrors of the rugged mountains and was rewarded by a rich surface find, the geologist now reads the secrets of the rocks hidden beneath the surface, and with almost mathematical precision directs deep mine development to the point of uncovering the buried treasures lying hundreds of feet below.

So dependable and exact has the science become it is evident that for every mine discovered by the old-fashioned prospector during the past, the modern geologist will uncover a hundred.

EMMA CONSOLIDATED, situated in the Wasatch mountain range 35 miles from Salt Lake, represents the culmination of scientific attainment and the successful rekindling of lost bonanzas which for 40 years eluded the efforts of less alert and skillful operators.

The orebodies on Emma Hill in the early 70's produced their millions from shallow depths only to terminate against a great slash or break in the strata. These, by an earth movement, were displaced and carried several hundred feet deeper than where they had previously existed.

The fabulously rich bodies of silver ore were lost and could not be found, despite patient effort and the expenditure of a million dollars.

Activity ceased. The mines lay idle, and represented but an empty shell to mark their former glory.

The year 1916 brought a change of method. The story of the rocks was read, the position of the lost bonanzas established with unerring precision. A diamond drill was employed to bring to view a portion of the ore. The bonanzas were found again—the rich ore was visualized.

Soon machinery was installed, buildings erected, and powerful pumps set to work which pulled the water out of the old shaft. Powerful rock drills and dynamite soon blasted a way to the orebody, and the famous Old Emma mine, after a lapse of more than a generation, once more joined the ranks of producers.

The year 1917 will witness a continually increasing stream of high-grade ore coming out of the EMMA CONSOLIDATED and its subsidiaries. It financed the company 18 months ago by the sale of treasury stock at 25¢ a share. To date the total cost of rescuing the properties from their moribund state and placing them on a high production basis has been about $300,000.

According to the estimates of the engineers, they promise to repeat their past performance and make an average production of this much every month, when all the shallow levels in the neighborhood of $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 and by all the laws of nature and ore deposits, the refund orebodies at depth should yield at least five times as much.

The whole authorized capitalization of Emma Consolidated is now 3,000,000 shares. The stock is now quoted on the New York Curb at around $2 1/2 a share. Its greatest market career is plainly RIGHT AHEAD.

In Jerome, Ariz., the United Verde mine for many years constituted the sole producer. It has yielded $160,000,000 in gold, silver and copper values. The past two years has seen the successful development of the United Verde extension through the application of geologic skill. On the surface there was no sign to show the presence of a great orebody below, but a shaft sent down 1200 feet, through barren capping rock, penetrated a great body of rich ore now valued at $40,000,000 in the market.

Buried deep beneath the surface rocks in the Verde district are ore-bearing formations, typified by the two mines mentioned. A great fault, or displacement of the rocks, known as the North Fault, is a prominent feature of the topography. The whole length of it has become a focus of intensive mining development. Some of the biggest mining groups in the country have put the hall mark of approval on the district by becoming identified with this exploration. It is more testimony of the reliance placed on the work of the geologist and engineer by the most experienced mining capitalists.

The great North Fault passes through the ground of the MONSTER CHIEF Mining Company. The same general geologic characteristics prevail as are found in the United Verde Ex., but experts state that the surface showing is infinitely better. The same high-class technical skill employed at the Emma Consolidated has been employed to guide the destinies of the MONSTER CHIEF.

On the MONSTER CHIEF only about 500 feet of a shaft is necessary to get to the ore-bearing formation. A noted geologist, thoroughly familiar with all the mines of the camp, having made a detailed study of the Monster Chief ground, pronounces it to be among the most favorably located in the district. It promises with the development work about to be undertaken, to develop another epoch-making bonanza copper mine such as United Verde and United Verde Ex. Monster Chief stock is today selling on the New York Curb at around 50¢ a share. IT IS BEYOND ANY QUESTION AT ALL AN OUTSTANDING SPECULATIVE PURCHASE—a metal mining speculation par excellence.

The skill of the geologist bears equally successful results when applied to the finding of oil and natural gas.

The RICE OIL COMPANY, which I have just arranged to finance and which I will offer for public participation immediately on completion of details of organization at 50¢ per share, owns leaseholds on 40,000 acres—more than 60 square miles—of carefully selected lands in Eastern Kentucky on the line of the great oil belt of the Appalachians which extends in a southwest line from New York state to Kentucky and Tennessee and beyond.

An experienced and highly successful oil expert has pronounced the property one of exceptional merit with every assurance of developing oil and gas on a large scale. The prolific oil and gas sands of Eastern Kentucky are known to underlie the company's acreage.

The profit resulting from successfully developing oil and gas is proverbial. The increment in value calls for the use of the multiplication table.

The company will be provided at the start with ample finance thoroughly to demonstrate the property.

I shall underwrite 800,000 shares of the treasury stock at 50¢ per share less 5 per cent. for brokerage and am confident that on formal announcement within a few days of the offering at 50¢ a share for public participation the issue will be heavily oversubscribed.

The company is capitalized for $5,000,000 in shares of $1 per value each, of which $3,500,000 is retained in the treasury. My confidence in the future success of the enterprise is shown by my willingness to name it after myself and further by my underwriting such a large amount of the treasury stock. I predict a brilliant market career for RICE OIL stock with eventual $10 to $20 a share possibilities.

The current issue of the INDUSTRIAL AND MINING AGE devotes considerable space to the Emma Consolidated, Monster Chief and Rice Oil companies. You should have a copy of this issue.

I publish the INDUSTRIAL AND MINING AGE as my house organ. The subscription rate is $5 per annum. Published regularly every week since January, 1909, and devoted to the exploitation of the leading New York Curb industrial, oil and metal-mining issues, is acknowledged to be the leading authority in the United States in its field. It is edited by a staff of noted experts and yields its greatest influence because of its expertness, impartiality, accuracy and dependability. Week by week it analyzes and appraises the intrinsic and speculative value of leading active issues from the expert viewpoint. There is no question at all that it has a greater following among professionals and investors everywhere than any other publication of its kind.

We start 1917 with a production three times as great as that of last January.

The rapidly increasing demand for the Cole Eight would allow an even larger expansion.

But we prefer to grow with great care. It tends to a sounder stability.

We prefer to increase by logical and reasonable steps rather than by too spectacular strides.

We consider the ultimate consumer first. Therefore we always take the utmost care to protect Cole Eight purchasers by painstaking, unhurried workmanship and the use of the best materials it is possible to obtain.

We are building for the future along the lines of established permanence.

Our long experience and our extensive facilities are devoted entirely to one fixed purpose---to one chassis---America's foremost Eight.

We aim to obtain and maintain the highest standard in the manufacture of fine motor cars.

This constant, diligent and persistent effort toward bettering the best has placed us in a very advanced position in the motor car industry.

As a result we start January shipping 200 per cent more cars than at this period last year.

A most interesting letter of Miss Helen E. Searl in connection with the work carried on among the Winnebago Indians has been requested to be put in print.

Dear Friends—During the summer I visited the Winnebago Indian Mission and spent almost a week with Miss Berkenpas, who you know is the missionary assigned to the young women's societies of the synods of New York and New Brunswick. Of the visit and of Miss Berkenpas I want to tell you.

"Song Woman," the Indian name for Miss Berkenpas, has light hair, fair complexion. She wears glasses. During the day she is in her nurse's costume of blue and white, with stun white collars and cuffs and she certainly looks very neat and efficient. She is splendid in taking one about and showing the conditions on the reservation. I can't be too thankful that I have added her to my list of real friends. I never had a more genuine welcome than she gave me nor felt more one or them than I did of that little mission group at Winnebago. In her company I visited many homes, Christian and heathen, and always we were welcomed because of her presence. Her influence is very great. I remember one place where she went to care for a boy with a bad tubercular sore. On leaving Miss Berkenpas said: "There is a victory for us. For weeks we have been trying to get that boy to the hospital and though the parents were willing the old grandmother refused and her word was law, but this morning she said he might go. And now I'm afraid it is too late." I am glad to say that it wasn't and that the boy has been helped. It is this home visiting and nursing which is winning the confidence of the old Indian.

Later we visited a home where there was a wee red-skinned baby with the blackest eyes you ever saw. How glad the mother was to see Miss B. and have her look baby over and give advice as to her care. From there we went to see an old woman who can hardly see—there is so much trachoma among the people. She greeted us with her bed with a laugh where she sat with her head in her hands. At first I thought they were only old boxes and rags, but soon found they were really treasures. Miss B. asked Sally Rogue to show me some of the ribbon work for which the Winnebagoes are famous and then I saw that carefully rolled up in these rags were bands of broadcloth or felt decorated with lovely designs cut out of ribbon of various colors. The sewing was beautiful. One thing led to another and she showed us her very large collection of beads, among them a bunch of strings of wampum worth alone over $400, also the ceremonial dresses and her gambling bowl. It was a wonderful opportunity, yet it was sad to see this poor old heathen woman on her bed which looked none too clean in her almost bare room, with two or three miserable little woolly dogs about to floor tone of which proceeded to have a fit while we were there) hanging on one bed post an old bone in a rag to keep away the evil spirits.

It was good to go next to John Smith's and even though here we found sickness, yet there was hope. His wife was sick and John Smith had spread a quilt for her on the ground, where she lay with her little plump black-eyed, black-haired granddaughter beside her, while John sat near by wanting so much to help. I wish you could have seen that child watch Miss B. in her grandmother's room. She wasn't sure it was a white man, but her eyes were troubled and before she left she was ready to smile, while John and wife were very grateful.

There are things you can send directly to Miss Berkenpas, Winnebago Mission, Winnebago, Neb. She needs old muslin and linen and any nurse's supplies, night clothes and sheets, as she cares for some in the mission home. If you have extra goodies in the way of jellies, etc., tack them in for I know they will be appreciated.

Miss Briggs has lately been appointed chairman of the Indian Committee and all communications should now be sent to her.

Money for the salary to Miss Laura Bennett, 415 78th street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

With best wishes I am, very cordially yours.

HELEN E. SERLE.
Retiring Chairman.
